

ALABAMA MAIN STREET

The Alabama Historical Commission is working with several statewide organizations and individuals to rebuild and expand Alabama's Main Street Program in time for 2010, The Year of Alabama Small Towns and Downtowns

The organizations and individuals listed below are partnering in this effort for rebuilding a strong and sustainable Alabama Main Street Program that can match the investments and results of neighboring state Main Street programs.

PARTNERS

Neal Wade, Alabama Development Office
Bill Johnson, Alabama Department of Development and Community Affairs
Ron Scott, Economic Development Association of Alabama
Lee Sentell, Department of Tourism
Karen Rogers, Auburn University, Architecture Department
Richard Dozier, Tuskegee University, Architecture Department
Perry Roquemore, Alabama League of Municipalities
Max Michaels, University of Alabama, School of Public Health
Ann Florie, Birmingham
Bob Howard, Alabama Power
Phil Segraves, Mayor, Guin
Larry Fluker, Mayor, Evergreen
Stephen Black, University of Alabama, Center for Ethics and Social Responsibility
Sommerville Hill, Alabama Institute of Architects
Frank White, Alabama Historical Commission
Jason Fondron, KPS Group
Warren Hicks, Tennessee Valley Authority
Jack Page, Alabama House of Representatives

Making a difference in downtowns
Making a difference in people's lives